1. INTRODUCTION

Carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) is a colourless, odourless and non-poisonous gas formed by combustion of carbon and in the respiration of living organisms and is considered a greenhouse gas. Emissions means the release of greenhouse gases. Carbon dioxide emissions or CO<sub>2</sub> emissions are emissions stemming from the burning of fossil fuels and the manufacture of cement; they include carbon dioxide produced during consumption of solid, liquid, and gas fuels as well as gas flaring.

1.1 Overview:

The global CO<sub>2</sub> emissions and energy demand numbers are based on the IEA's detailed region-by-region and fuel-by-fuel analysis, drawing on the latest official national data and publicly available energy, economic, weather and data.

1.2 purpose:

From this analysis we are focusing on CO<sub>2</sub> emission and its effect on world we live in as well as some key factors and stats that may play a role in the emission of CO<sub>2</sub> globally. by analysing global CO<sub>2</sub> emissions across countries from 1975 to 2020. This dataset contains a record of CO<sub>2</sub> emission by each country and region of earth, here we are going to analyse and visualise country wise, region wise and overall CO<sub>2</sub> emission on

ADVANTAGES:

- * This is one of the most efficient methods of extracting carbon emissions permanently from the environment.
- * The numerous advantages of this includes economic, social, and environmental, and a massive impact on global and local scale.
- * This can increase the power generator with CO<sub>2</sub> based steam cycles.
- * This can also be utilized in the manufacturing of polymers and chemical such as polyurethanes.

DISADVANTAGES:

- * It can be very costly for power plants to generate electricity through fossil fuels.
- * The possibility of leakages could also be a result of natural such as earthquakes.
- * Storage of carbon dioxide in high volume at a single location can lead to environmental contamination, if not handled correctly.
- * It is not adequate to successfully deal with climate changes.

5. APPLICATIONS:

6

The majority of greenhouse gas emissions from transportation are carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) emissions resulting from the combustion of petroleum-based products, like gasoline and diesel fuel, in internal combustion engines. The carbon in CO<sub>2</sub> enables the conversion of hydrogen into a fuel that is easier to handle and use, for example as an aviation fuel. Building materials produced from CO<sub>2</sub> and minerals or waste can be competitive today. CO<sub>2</sub> use can provide climate benefits where the application is scalable, uses low-carbon energy, and displaces a product with higher life-cycle emissions. CO<sub>2</sub> could be an important raw material for products that require carbon. New pathways to use CO<sub>2</sub> in the production of fuels, chemicals and building materials are generating global interest.

6. CONCLUSION :

Overall, the evidence is clear that climate change is very existent in today's world and is primarily caused by humans. Despite the obvious realities, society and lawmakers have yet to take enough initiative. Various environmentalist groups have attempted to raise awareness on the topic but many still fail to see its importance. If countries all over the world begin to educate their people about the importance of the environment and how to lessen their carbon footprints, ignorance will decline and we will have new ideas and solidarity to fix our environmental problems.

7. FUTURE SCOPE:

Continued emissions of greenhouse gases will lead to further climate changes. Future changes are expected to include a warmer atmosphere, a warmer and more acidic ocean, higher sea levels, and larger changes in precipitation patterns. The academics, international organizations, and government agencies have paid special consideration to identifying the carbon emission sources and thereby implementing various carbon mitigation strategies. The initial research on carbon emissions was conducted in 1981 and the domain has evolved significantly over the past two decades. This study provides a scientometric analysis of carbon emission research using 2561 bibliographic records extracted from the WoS core collection database. Several scientometric analysis, such as co-authorship, author co-citation, document co-citation, and journal co-citation analysis were utilized to identify and explore the trends in carbon emission research.
